My treatment of him has been civil and fair: I ve always been willing to give him a share; I never have grudged him my corn or my beans. But nothing can teach him what gratitude means. My friends, I shall soon lay before you a plan To put down this insolent creature called man, --A creature that has neither feathers nor wings, Yet sets itself up to be very great things. I hereby proclaim, in the plainest of words, That henceforth mankind must succumb to the birds. I m. glad that this Barnaby s cherries you pecked: The man has no rights that a bird should respect. This speech was received with a round of applause. Your cheers, said the crow, argue well for the cause; When next we assemble, my plan you shall learn: There s Barnaby coming-- tis time to adjourn. This little girl was peeping through a hole in the fence while the birds were chattering. She saw a robin, a tomtit, a chickadee, a sparrow, and a solemn old crow. The crow was perched on the top of a dead tree. The other birds were on some bushes. They all seemed to be talking together. The little girl wondered what they were saying. North Andover, Mass.
